Communicated, Education and Outreach

Integrated Systems Solutions (ISS) provides communication, education, and outreach services to federal agencies requiring support with highly-technical and scientific content and operations. Our two-time Emmy Award winning people, practices and tools make the difference for program, project and initiative support, as well as staffing your entire production.

- Content Design and Development: Producing and managing technical and scientific content for websites, databases, and technical documentation. Designing and developing compelling content for presentations, briefings and social media campaigns.

- Communication Strategy and Support: Strategic communication planning, analysis, design, and support for stakeholder and communication engagements, branding and brand identity. Staffing and liaison support legislative and congressional affairs and for public affairs.

- Multimedia Design and Production: Video production, animation, voice-over and narration, design, script writing and editing. Communicating complex scientific concepts to scholars, scientist, and the general public, including elementary school children.

- Training and Education: Curriculum design and development for training programs, hands-on workshops, citizen outreach, workforce development and leadership training, including leadership training efficacy evaluations.
